National Storytelling Week at Leesburg Public Library

November 16-22, 2003 is "National Storytelling Week," and the Leesburg Public Library is hosting a special program to mark the occasion.

Youth Services Librarian Lois Gross will be telling stories that, "Flutter, Buzz and Sting: Insect Tales to Drive You Buggy." This program will be suitable for the whole family, and takes place on Monday evening, November 17th at 7:00 p.m. at the library.

This storytelling event, open to all families, has been scheduled especially to accommodate the needs of working families who want to take part in library programs.

Call the library at (352) 728-9793 to make reservations for this program, or drop by the Youth Services Department to save your space. Reservations are recommended, but walk-ins will be welcome, as space permits.
